The anniversary of the Reformation in 2017 offers the opportunity to present the history of the changes in faith of Pfalz-Neuburg in authentic settings. The beginning is represented by the Renaissance Count Palatine Ottheinrich with his palace chapel, the oldest Protestant church building ever. Under his successors, Pfalz-Neuburg developed into a Protestant model state. However, Pfalzgraf Wolfgang Wilhelm converted to the Catholic faith on religious grounds, but also principally on account of hereditary titles in Lower Rhine. With the support of the Jesuits, he established the Counter-Reformation. The effects of the Catholic revival will be on exhibition in the Hofkirche, in a new Treasure Room and at other historical locations that are not otherwise open to the public.
